Bringing Joy to Children Touched by Cancer

Dear Angel Hugs Friends,

We have been busy over the past month welcoming 40 new families into our program—and we need your help to fill our Summer Hug Boxes!

We are looking for:

- Individually wrapped candy
- Summer-themed toys and goodies

Planning for our annual Be an Angel Benefit is underway, and we are still seeking event sponsors. Email angelhug32u@zoho.com to help make this event a success. Save the date is on page two!

Also, Brats for Tots is graciously benefiting Project Angel Hugs this year! Join us at Suscha's Bar in Sheboygan on May 2nd from 11 AM–6 PM for live music, delicious food, and raffles.

Read the story of one of our most recently enrolled children, along with a heartfelt thank-you email we received from his mother on page three.

Thank you for helping children touched by cancer feel love, joy, and support—today and every day.

With heartfelt gratitude,

Jessica Jensema, Executive Director

Samuel is a very brave little boy who is not only fighting cancer but is also recovering from a stroke and a recent cranioplasty. At the time of his diagnosis, Samuel was given zero chance of survival.

His journey has been incredibly long and difficult — including being in a coma and hospitalized for four months. But Samuel continues to fight every day, showing just how strong and resilient he truly is.

Recently, we welcomed Samuel into our program. He received our Thinking of you and Easter Hug Boxes, and his mom shared this message with us:

"Hello, As I lay here in bed, I find myself reflecting of today. Samuel had a medical appointment today and was feeling tired when we got home. When we got home, he saw his two boxes very sweetly decorated. Samuel was very excited to open his boxes, and it meant so much to him. He sat and read all the cards and was super emotional, especially with a hand painted rock that came with a very special message.

He said "WOW mom these people don't even know me, and these are kids like me writing these cards and painting these rocks. He asked me to take a photo and write a thank you letter for him.

Samuel has gone through a lot with cancer treatment. Today, he felt happy, grateful and not alone. We truly appreciate the kindness and time it took to put this very special boxes together."
